Non-Profit Organization PAID U.S. POSTAGE Fredericksburg, Va 22401 Permit No. 216 p.o. box 1115, fredericksburg virginia

VOLUME 51, NUMBER 2

MARY WASHINGTON COLLEGE

TUESDAY, JANUARY 24, 1978

No rationale for benching ...

Players Leave Team in Frustration

By JOHN M. COSKI
Two senior baskethall players, Tom Vandever and Paul La Due, have reluctantly made this a short season after spending weeks trying to break back into a lineup from which they feel they were unjustifiably removed.
La Due, a 5-11 guard, then Vandever, a 6-3 forward, uneventfully quit the team shortly after Christmas vacation. They feel that their true motivations for the decision have been inaccurately portrayed.

tions for the decision have been inac-curately portrayed.

Charges against Coach Ed Heg-mann's inabilities to grasp the res-ponsibilities of a coach were cited as primary reasons for quitting. Particu-larly important were his poor on-court conduct, his misuse of players' talents, and quickness to conderm dissenting opinions as 'negative atti-tudes toward the program.

Hegmann was quoted vicariously in THE FFEE LANCE-STAR as saying.

'The two seniors left with no hard feelings, stating that they were leav-ing only because some of the younger 'bayers' were coming around and recings, stating that they were leaving only because some of the younger players were coming around and needed all the playing time they could get. 'I a Due and especially Vandever were upset at this statement and, in particular, the reason attributed to them for quitting.

Regarding this quote, Hegmann admitted that he was the source, but that it wasn't worded properly. Not denying that he had spoken for his former players, he commented that he did not use the term 'hard feelings' in the statement to the FLS reporter.

La Due's final split with the team was conducted without incident, though he felt irritation after driving from Northern Virginia (uncertain of his status) to find that he was no longer with the team. Recalling an epihis status) to find that he was no long-er with the team. Recalling an epi-sode last season when he and several other players had had to apologize to Hegmann in order to return to the team, La Due announced upon arrival that he was back to play, but not to apologize. This was apparently insuf-ficient.

that he was back to play, but not to apologize. This was apparently insufficient.

Vandever has had no history of frayed relations with Hegmann and rarely spoke of his discontent while on the team. When he quit, he recalled Hegmann as saying, "I was afraid that would happen," indicating that the coach was aware of his dissatisfeation.

faction.

Both men denied having quit 'for the good of the team,' saying that the team had nothing to gain from their quitting and that it never entered into the decision. One player was quoted as saying that the team was sorry to see them go and that La Due's attitude "never promoted dissension."

La Due and Vandever both started at Mary Washington in their soptomore years when the basketball program was more of a club than a team.

At the end of that year, Ed Hegmann was hired as athletic director and head basketball coach, previous coach, Marsh Bowen, being relegated to assistant coach. This move reflected a desire to Improve MWC's intercollegista ethletic program and make it a more serious aspect of campus activities.

make it a more serious aspect of cam-pus activities.

The program as a whole has done exactly that and Hegmann has re-ceived universal praise as athletic di-rector. An anonymous player stated, though, "I don't feel that Hegmann has had the training as a coach."
When contacted, Hegmann listed his credentials as two years as basketball coach at a Cincinnati high school and two years as tennis coach at Spring-field College.

The basketball program has been college.

basketball program has been rated to include a harder sched-

The basketball program has, been accelerated to include a harder schedule to attract better and more players. La Due is wary of this move, but Valence and process the second of the sec

As is to be expected, no one denied that basketball is a high-tension game and players and coaches will be ejected. Vandever emphasized, though, that Hegmann's conduct went beyond acceptability and that hardly a game, especially on the road, went by without some incident. Stating that a team reflects the attitude of its coach, Vandever said that Hegmann's actions were not only a poor example for players, but also made the team more susceptible to personal and technical foul calls.

An incident was cited when Heg-mann called an opposing coach 'a chump' and another when he was ejected from the entire gym. Heg-mann noted that the year before his own appointment as coach, Paul La Due met a similar fate in that same gym. La Due and Vandever felt there is no relation between the two events and that it was Hegmann's outburst and later remarks to the opposing coaches that resulted in strained relations between Charles County Community College and MWC.

A major factor leading to the tension between La Due and Hegmann concerned the former's unsuccessful attent to intervene in an alternation.

attempt to intervene in an altercation attempt to intervene in an altercation between his coach and an official in a garne last year. La Due was pushed aside by Hegmann and told to get dressed. Hegmann subsequently record to the control of the control of Hegmann defended himself against the claim that his conduct was irrational by noting that, on at least one occasion, a referee apologized to him after the game for his "mistake." Another official who had ejected him was said to have a history of intolerance to opposition from coaches. Although the quote is not general knowledge of the present team, he said that early in his first year as coach, several players chastised him, "You're not like us, you don't argue with the referees."

ees."

Vandever held that his former coach's effort to build "an all-Hegmann team" with non-controversial, non-dominating team players was unnecessary to the beautiful team of the second team of the seco coach seriors and controversial, non-dominating team players was undermined by Hegmann's on-court performance. Although Hegmann said he was not aware of it, Vandever related instances in which opposing players asked MWC players, "Is your coach always like this?"

Unlike Vandever's low-profile presence on the team, La Due spent the 1976-77 season at odds with Hegmann and felt that this stress carried over into this season. He played last year under the stigma of being a hot-tempered player and fell into trouble with Hegmann during a series of encounters, both on-court and off.

La Due started this season with the intention of "being a perfect angel," which, judging by the statements of other players, he accomplished. Asking not to be played much during an early season illness, La Due felt that this became a permanent contract in Hegmann's eyes.

The nature of this year's team is far different from last year, with many more freshmen; whom Hegmann has quickly integrated into his plans.

Dear Editor:
It has come to my attention that a great deal of disagreement and divisiveness surround the interpretation of a provision in the Student Association Constitution requiring all members of the Executive Cabinet to be in good social and academic standing.
As President of the Student Associa-

Contrary to the implication of the quote in THE FREE LANCE-STAR, quote in THE FREE LANCE-STAR, Hegmann claims that he does not play freshmen this year for the sake of next year, adding that transfer stu-dents have been a major source of team talent. His philosophy is to start the best players, regardless of class. Of La Due and Vandever he said sim-ple. "They did not seek he width the

Of La Due and Vandever he said simply, "They did not match up with the talent we had this year."

Although most are pleased to be starting or playing regularly and have no criticism of Hegmann, one freshman expressed confusion at playing over La Due. When La Due expressed his dissatisfaction with the situation to this player after a game, the player was reported as saying, "I understand what you mean completely."

understand what you mean completely."

La Due felt that the freshmen, especially Kevin Martin, might have more talent than he did, but also that the availability of such potential talent made him and Vandever (expendable) to Hegmann. He felt that Hegmann considered him an enemy, but asserted that "If Hegmann thought he had a threat from Tommy (Vandever), he has a serious problem."

La Due made no mention of Hegmann's 'shortcomings' as a coach to the freshmen, but stands convinced that they are now aware of them.

the freshmen, but stands convinced that they are now aware of them. La Due's criticisms of Hegmann's coaching focuses on the "misuse of players' talents," and skepticism over his reasons for starting unprac-ticed or physically unprepared play-ers over him and Vandever. Vandever was at a loss to explain why he wasn't being played

Hegmann attributed the two men's Hegmann attributed the two men's dissatisfaction to "a frustration which they had no control over." He added that they have "acted immaturely in handling their problem."

Both men listed their primary reasons for quitting as a reluctance to slight other obligations in favor of sitting on the bench. Their response to Hegmann's charge of being frustrated was that it was true only in that their situation seemed to have no rationale behind it.

tionale behind it.

For all those contacted, "portraying a good team image" was of primary importance. Vandever holds that Hegmann's on-court actions betray this effort, while Hegmann charged La Due with, among other things, what he called failure to abide by decent dress habits. Vandever and La Due termed the latter charge, "ridiculous."

While not a major reason for La Due and Vandever leaving the team, a different interpretation of what con-stitutes a good team image or a "neg-ative view of the program" lies at the heart of the controversy with Coach

Phillips Blasts Constitution Misuse

THE CURTAIN CLOSES FOR THE FINAL TIME at the Colonial Theater downtown. After years as the city's primary theater, economics has produced

End of an Era

Colonial Theater's Last Act

By SUSAN KAY PETERS

The Colonial Theater, a part of Fredericksburg for 50 years, recently closed its doors for the last time. The closed its doors for the last time. The theater, in recent years, has become he "least desirable because of its size and age," according to Mike Hession, Vice-President of the RC Theater chain. This chain owns all of the theaters in Fredericksburg. They shut down the Colonial because there are not enough films for this areas' seven screens. If the film industry picks up, Hession said there would be a possibility of a reopening, but that it seems unlikely in the film market. However, RC has no immediate plans for removing the equipment or seats from the downtown building.

For years, the Colonial was the showplace of Fredericksburg. With the opening of the Victoria Theater in the 1930's, also located on Caroline Street, the Colonial became a B-

...lovie house, showing westerns and Charlie Chan, while the Victoria catered to first-run spectaculars.

The Colonial was plagued with two floods, one in the 1940's and again in the 1970's, but the end of the theater came as a result of the movie industry itself. In the late 1960's and early 1970's the Colonial was booked with R and X-rated films, which hut the theater's interest in the second to the colonial was booked with R and X-rated films, which hut the theater's interest in the second to the colonial was booked with R R C Theater's has a lease on the building until the year 2000. According to Hession, the theater can be rented on an individual basis. There have been no indications that the RC offices will be moved from the second floor of the Colonial.

The owner of the building is negotiating the purchase of the entire building for a dinner theater. Hession said that RC will cooperate in the event of a sale to the Colonial American Studio Theater.

As President of the Student Association during the time when this provision was drafted and enacted, and as one of the people instrumental in its inception, I hope that I can provide some clarification of the intentions of its authors. I am taking the liberty to write this letter in an attempt to resolve some of the questions dividing the student body. Approximately two and one-half years ago, the Executive Cabinet did some serious analysis of the S.A. Con-MWC WELCOMES ITS NEW ASST. DEAN OF STUDENT SERVICES Nona Wegner, who joined the administration this month.

By LAURIE SHELOR

By LAURIE SHELOR
MWC not only has a new administrative position, Asst. Dean of Student Services, but a new administrator to fill it, as well. Her name is Nona Wegner and she is just beginning this semester. She graduated from Newcomb College of Tulane University with a political science degree, and received her M.A. in Public Relations from American University.

She has taught at American U., George Mason U., Va. Union, Howard U., and the Central Michigan branch in D.C. Ms. Wegner also produced a radio program and worked for the D.C. Hilton in the PR-Advertising field.

field.
She currently writes a column for a

MWC Welcomes New Administrator

Richmond newspaper along with her new duties at MWC.

Ms. Wegner is familiar with MWC, having considered attending here as a college student. She finds the campus "one of the most beautiful, physically" with a background similar to that of Newcomb, where she attended.

She has, as of yet, met none of the faculty, but adds that she is looking forward to this pleasure. The student leaders she has talked with she finds to be "responsible and articulate." She finds the administration to be dedicated to the development of student life; she suggests this dedication is rare among administration, who are normally concerned with financial pressures.

Ms. Wegner believes in a residential college system, and maintains that managing one's own environment is as "important as learning." She is eager to begin working with Class Council on various projects and to coordinate activities, which is primarily her function. She wants to continue to expand student services. Ms. Wegner feels the administration is totally behind her.

Reward offered for yellow-gold women's class ring. Initials C.R.S. B.A. inscription. Contact Cynthia Sa-muels 410 Bushnell, x452.

stitution and decided to require all members of the Executive Cabinet to be in good academic standing as defined by the Dean as a 2.0 GPA with 12 credit hours. Later this was extended to include all students in elected positions. This was not done to burden any student officer with undue hardship of required classtime hours, but rather to insure two basics. First, to make sure that student officers are in fact full-time students. We found that "student" was too broad a term, that we needed to qualify just who would be eligible for certain positions. Any individual taking any number of hours considers himself/herself a student, is recognized by the College as such and indeed is a student. The Executive Cabinet recognized and encouraged the contributions of special and part-time students; however, we wanted to guarantee that only full-time students served as the highest officers in the Student Association and represented the College. Second, to make sure that all student officers acknowledge that their first and foremost responsibility is academics. A student officer is also much more aware of student and faculty sentiment if he/she is attending classes full-time.

A tundamental mental makes in a student officer, editor, or athlete should be event from such require the executions. One can argue that a student officer, editor, or athlete should be event from such require tution by submitting there are inwrit-ten exceptions. One can argue that a student officer, editor, or athlete should be exempt from such require-ments, but that is not the question here. What we are discussing is whether once that provision has been agreed upon by both parties, should exceptions be made. I submit the answer is no.

People may say that officers in the past took less than 12 hours and that they are correct. For example, my predecessor, Mary M. Mahon, I think, took only nine hours, but that was before we inserted any minimum hour requirements.

requirements.
Students at MWC may decide they disapprove of this provision and ask for its repeal. The right to do so is justly theirs. What I have strived to do is provide some background on this provision, the interpretation we intended for it to have, and the reasons we believed it was in the best interests of the College as a whole.

I wish the best for all of you at Mary Washington. I think about you often. Gwen E. Phillips, Student Association President, 1975–1976, 1976–1977

Constitutional Changes

By TERRY PURVIS

By TERRY PURVIS

Revisions are underway in the Executive Cabinet for MWC's Student Association Constitution, according to SA President Kathy Mayer. The revisions will be voted upon by the student body in March, and, if approved, will become effective immediately.

No drastic changes are being made, but certain ambiguities, including the constitution's definition of full-time student status will be clarified. This point is being revised at the suggestion of a student in a recent open student body meeting. Mayer did not specify exactly how the new version would be worded.

Procedures concerning the circulation and handling of petitions are being clarified, and several revisions concerning day student senatorial elections and the role of the day student judicial chairman are being made.

All amendments to the current concerning and.

made.

All amendments to the current constitution will be incorporated as articles into the body of the constitution, and certain campaign rules are being sharpened following problems with recent elections.

Revision work has been taking place in the Executive Cabinet since last fall, and the new constitution will be presented to MWC President Prince Woodard sometime before Feb. 10, on which date the Board of Visitors will review the changes. Mayer said that the SA plans to have a lawyer go over the revisions before presentation to the BOV to insure the legality of the new wording.

Mayor stressed that the Executive

Mayer stressed that the Executive Cabinet is still open to students' comments and ideas concerning the revisions. The cabinet members have tried to go about the revising with open minds, and are happy to listen to all students concerning the straightening out of the constitution.

Members are Mayer, SA Vice Pres-Members are Mayer, SA Vice Pres-ident Barbara Stammerjohn, Aca-demic Affairs Chairman Laura Bu-chanan, Judicial Chairman Cynthia Reeves, SA Whip Susan Maloney, Day Student President Mark McCoy, and Residential Council President Ber-nard Skibinski.

The Bullet

Printed by and for the M.W.C. community in the offices of the Fredericksburg FREE LANCE-STAR

Anne F. Haves

Patricia A. Ringle, News Editor Helen Marie McFalls. \Features Editor Michelle McKeever, Business Manager

Editorials

News Rooted in Truth: Information Not Invention

of leadership or a publication, he/she must be willing to con-stantly evaluate and re-evaluate the journalistic responsi-bility involved in the job. This topic has surfaced and been discussed by THE BULLET staff frequently in the past few months. The obvious change in THE BULLET'S tone this year as opposed to previous years calls for serious consideration of the purpose for which this newspaper exists and of the responsibilities of the Editorial

By design, the duties of a college newspaper are the same as those of a community publication: to inform the public it of current issues, and problems that events. arise. Often a newspaper staff or reporter discovers news-worthy events that are neither pleasant to write nor pleasant to read. The circumstances surrounding the issue might cause some individuals or groups considerable discomfort. A controversial topic may force the readers to evaluate their positions and to formulate a stance on the subject. It may even arouse enough inter-est and concern to initiate debate and to bring all sides into the open. Why? Because human nature demands truth. The only certainty we have in is rooted in truth.

Hence, when an issue arises concerning the public a news-paper serves, there are deci-sions to be made. What is the purpose of printing issues that will disturb or disrupt the status quo? The solution to this question lies in the circum-stances surrounding that stat-potentially If the issue threatens or contradicts the convictions of the public, if its possible ramifications will alter a process that the public believes to be stable and re-sponsible, or if its existence is so shady that its perpetrators conceal it, then it is the duty of informed journalism to print the facts. A reporter is also bound to investigate any possi-ble news story if he/she is directly requested to do so by a member or members of the readership population. If the results of that investigation prove to be of general concern, this too constitutes legitimate cause to print news.

I find it unfortunate and pathetic that when issues arise which force people to evaluate ambiguous situations, some of individuals who feel threatened attack a piece of journalism as the cause of the issue's existence. Newspapers do not invent situations and lack of coverage will not eradicate them. If there is the possibility of corrective change, intelligent compromise, or at least the recognition of an un-satisfactory situation, then there is reason to inform the Recently the issues covered in THE BULLET have been criticized from many sides, overtly and subtly. We have been accused of sensationalism and yellow journalism by a few dissatisfied readers. feel that it is not only sad but frightening that such misinformed descriptions have been employed. They neither serve to refute nor alter the truth of issues presented. I also feel that recent events of hathat recent events of ha-rassment against individual staff reporters is unnecessary.

immature and repulsive. (And believe me, things of this sort have occurred.) THE BUL-LET will print pertinent infor-mation for the purpose of informing the readers of the circumstances under which they reside at Mary Washington College. And the decisions on what is appropriate to print will be carefully considered with responsible concern for the lives we as students presently lead. As an old saying goes, "the (bullet) flies straight and true. Editor-in-

Charles Rowe, Editor-in-Chief of THE FREE LAN-CE-STAR, in the December 4, 1968 issue of that paper defined the responsibilities and posi-tion of THE BULLET at M.W.C. In response to a con-troversial article entitled "Wanted: Jesus" (November 25, 1968) which appeared in THE BULLET, Rowe stated, "Your newspaper is student-operated, financed by money from student fees and adverfrom student rees and adver-tising. The college administra-tion quite wisely doesn't at-tempt to control the thoughts expressed in THE BULLET. After all, a college is supposed to be a place where ideas are challenged, questions debated, concepts tested, and then accepted or rejected. It's where people learn to think for them-selves." ". . . (Most people) will defend your freedom to run your paper the way you see fit, to express controversial ideas if you wish, to challenge the Establishment or the col-lege administration or whatever. You may not always be marching with the crowd, but don't forget there have been others before you who heard the sound of a different drum-mer." H.M.M.

What is a Radical?

By MICHAEL MELLO

By MICHAEL MELLO Edwin Newman, in his book Strictly Speaking, wrote that there are certain words and phrases in the English lan-guage which have been so misused and debased that their meaning has blurred to the point of uncomprehen-sion. One such word is "radical," a word bantered about this campus with increasing frequency since the advent of PROMETHEUS. But how could, if questioned, really de many could, if questioned, really define the word?

I would like to suggest that when many people use the word "radical," they really mean to say "activist." The distinction is critical because one term denotes a particular political philosophy and one does not. A radical is one who is opposed to the present social system, believes that progressive change within that system is impossible, and that the present system is mystem to more application or word of the system is mystem; or not own and replaced with another; or, as Webster puts it, "advocating extreme measures to retain or resore a political system." The key word here is "system," as opposed to particular policies advanced by components within that system.

An "activist" on the other hand, is a person who believes in taking action against the things he opposes or in behalf of those he supports. He is different from the radical in that he supports the system and is willing to work within it to effect his changes.

Also, the term is apolitical; an ac-Also, the term is apolitical; an ac-tivist is not necessarily a leftist; he can be a good Republican or Demo-crat, he may be a member of Right-lo-Life or NORML. Phyllis Schafley is as much an activist as Julian Bond, Ro-nald Reagan as much as Cesar Cha-vez. Thus, this is not a call to radical-irent bits acult to orbitics.

Occasionally, student activism is reprehensible in its demands and objectives, such as the Filthy Speech Movement in Berkeley. But one idea is central to student activism: the belief that students have a right to participate in decisions which affect them. This concept is the core of the basic democratic ideal upon which our society is based: an active, informed citizenry is essential if democratic ideal upon the control of the control o racy is to really work. When administrators tell students to shirk that responsibility and deny them a real voice in their destiny, or when students voluntarily forfeit it, this not only denies the democratic ideal, it undermines the idea of education itself.

Many educators tend to feel that students should be studying rather than demanding a say in their educational treatment. But campus activism is in itself an education. I have learned more about politics through NORML and the Student Lobby than I learned in the 18 hours of Political Science I have taken here, and my dealings with Joint Council gave me an education in law and justice more valuable than an entire curriculum or pre-law courses.

Studies are a student's primary r stumes are a student's primary responsibility, but philosophers from Socrates on have taught that the unexamined life is not worth living: that men have a moral right, an obligation to take part in the decisions that affect them.

setters

Dear Editor:
Up until I received the December 8 issue of THE BULLET this week, I had been enjoying keeping up with current campus events. But current events at MWC have soured, and the end-of-the-year report seemed to capsulize a new wave of cynicism.
PAGE ONE: Student vandalism, theft, and "group retches," and the inept attempts of the Administration, the Honor Council, and the Judicial Court to penalize the offenders. S.A. Whip almost resigns to protest injustice done to "Westmoreland 4." Such a productive reaction to a worthy cause. Once again, Dr. Woodard and Dean Clement are playing bad guys. The Honor System and the S.A. Constitution are lolling in their own law-lessness, as are their sworn upholders. In general, top student leaders are faring badly—one even resigns in "discouragement."
PAGE TWO: The Letters Columnacontinuing melodrama of PROME-THEUS vs. (bitting the) BULLET. Yawn.

Yawn.
PAGE THREE: Ditto.
PAGE FOUR: The contents of an honor trial revealed in print, in direct violation of the Honor Constitution.
The infamous article found its way to THE BULLET's pages. Peer

THE BULLET'S pages. Feet pressure.

PAGE FIVE: Inspiring. A rave review of an original play which communicates the deep theme that "... MWC is hell, college is for the insane, Mary Washington is not keeping up with the times, therefore instead of developing young minds it is driving them crazy." The insipid minds that "wit this idea to paper could have used developing young minds it is driving them crazy." The insipid minds that put this idea to paper could have used tollet paper to absorb the bulk of it. Believe it or not, this letter has nothing to do with defaming THE BULLET—the newspaper is no more than a reflector of the environment from which it draws. And the outer reflection is alarming, because it eventually can alter the reputation of the College and its citizens. Right now, Mary Washington students are molding the opinions of the outside world about them—especially those of prospective students, employers, and graduate schools.

What I see, now that I can observe grauuate schools.

What I see, now that I can observe from a distance, are a lot of students What I see, now that I can observe from a distance, are a lot of students who have to shift their frustrations by blaming the institution, its organiza-tions and their constitutions. God for-bid they should challenge their own constitutions. There's a new breed of pseudo-intellectuals (a.k.a. Prometheans and friends) who've got to attack the status quo every now and again when they feel the world's been dumping on them. Ironically, what these "progressive-minded" souls spend their time advocating is a system entrenched with bureaucratic red tape and loopholes—the kind that enable guilty people: to go free. In the meantime, they're letting their education (or, in more precise terms, parents' money) slip by, just because they made the mistake of coming to a school they couldn't handle, and must continually compensate for it by conderming the college instead of becoming responsible students working together towards constructive change.

Photography Editor.....

Circulation Manager

Don't get me wrong. I'm not a staunch advocate of conformity, and I believe there is ample room for improvement in the administration and student leadership, and their communication to the student body. But I balk when the proponents of change inhibit others' learning processes, and endanger the future benefits they may enjoy by having attended MVC. I submit that the majority of controversial blow-ups in the past two or three years have been sensationalized and debilitating to the MWC community. They weren't worth the yellow paper they were printed on. In fact, the issue of student rights has been pushed to the point of diminishing returns—students have lost, not gained, thanks to a few. And the other side of the coin—student responsibility—is a deed sissue.

If I were still at Mary Washington, I'd he fightly mad about what I read the coin—student responsibility—is a dead issue.

If I were still at Mary Washington, I'd be fighting mad about what I read today. A few people are really displaying MWC in a poor light, and are getting good publicity for it. In the long run, that leads to a debasement of the diploma. I'm tired of hearing plea-bargaining for people who throw pigs' blood on innocent individuals who had nothing to do with Allende, for people who tear water fountains off dormitory walls, for people who can't keep themselves above suspicion, for people who were dumb enough to get caught. If seems to be enough to get caught. If seems to be can't keep themselves above suspi-cion, for people who were dumb enough to get caught. It seems to be fashionable to take up the cross for careless mischief-makers. All this was old even before "Dethrone the Prince" T-shirts hit the streets. It's not chic, not even avant-garde. Strictly old hat.

Strictly old hat.

In reference to the issue of honor trials and administrative hearings:
U.S. constitutionality is not the highest form of justice—merely a general blueprint upon which we may build.

Certain extralegal duties are vested in college officials and college lead-ers, duties which are tailored to the needs of the college. That's why some people in the property of the property saltes of Ainerica. And the Divary of an honor trial was created to protect the rights of all involved: the accused, the accuser, and the Honor Council, which must remain unswayed by rumor which would inevitably flour ish were all trials publicized. In the case of the disputed honor trial, many procedural mistakes were made, date to the everpresent variable of human misjudgment Despite all that Honor Council property and the defendit. The people of the theorem of the everpresent variable of human misjudgment Despite all that defendit. The same street the Honor Council property and the defendit. The same street the effect of the everpresent variable arrive at the defendit. The same street the same street the effect of the same street in all honor and judicial matters, especially trials. Letting the student body at large determine the correctness of a verdict: all that would be the ultimate in injustness.

Everyone seems to have forgetten, in all the hubbub that MWC is a college, and one well-known for its academic excellence. But constant attention to its fleaw will undeniably lead to its demise, unless careful, calculated attempts at reform are made. Radicalism is the stuff nightmares are made of Radicalism never solved a problem, just blew it out of proportion.

Concluding, I can assure you that I am not the only alumnus who feels problem, just blew it out of proportion.

Concluding, I can assure you that I arn not the only alumnus who feels this way. This trend has long troubled many of us. I have said what's been brewing in me for a couple of years now—not that I expect to make any great shakes—but I suspect I'll feel better now that it's been said. No doubt there will be a rash of letters corning in to rebut this one, which is fine. Because I don't plan to waste my time debating in the Letters Column.
In my mind, there is nothing left to be said.

Debra Dawson Ardani

Debra Dawson Ardan Class of 1977 Dover Deleware

Please see page 3

The Bullet

Mary Washington College is an affirmative action equal employment opportunity institution. It does not discriminate against any person for reasons of age, sex, marital status, race, nationality, religion, or political affiliation. THE STAFF OF THE BULLET

.....Thomas Vandever ..Ruth Ghormley, Advertising Managers. Helen Marie McFalPatrick Everett

..Paul Hawke PhotographerAlison Scheuing

Staff – Linda Sheridan, John Coski, Susan Morrow, Vicki Reynard, Laurie Shelor, Terry Purvis, Cindy Goforth, Gretchen Burman, Kathryn Otto, Philip Leonard, Missy Baker, Jane Opitz, Mary Lee, Dean Ball, Patrick Thompson.

Letter's_

Editor's Note:

It is not the purpose of this note to discuss the journalistic philosophy of Ardan's letter. There are however, certain factual errors in the letter which should be noted.

1) Ms. Ardan's assertion that the publication of Elliott Wentz's article on the Pam Burrows Honor Trial was "in direct violation of the Honor Constitution" is untrue. Article IV section 2 of that Constitution provides that "no information relating to the case may be printed or given unless requested by the accused..." Mr. Wentz, PROMETHEUS and THE BULLET all had Ms. Burrow's permission for the article.

BULLET all had Ms. Burrow's permission for the article.

2) THE BULLET did not print the article because of peer pressure as Ms. Ardan claims. In the December 8, 1977 BULLET, Mr. Wentz specifically asked us to reprint his article.

3) Ms. Ardan's assertion that the BULLET staff members are "letting their education (or, in more precise (terms, parents' money) slip by..." is

Dear Editor,

I must admit that the "Westmoreland Four" have been treated unjustly in the treatment of their case, yet one can not blame the President for treating the case the way he did. Mr.
Sproul stated that MWC cannot accept the differences between males and fermales—his kind of males, that 's When men choose to act like animais let them be treated so. Wake up guyal High School is behind and it is time to enter the "civilized" realm of college. When the male population can begin accepting college policy and following it, then MWC will be ready to accept them. "Breaking things" does not make one a man. No, Mr. Sproul, I cannot imagine fernales getting together for a group retch, nor can I imagine males doing so either.

Cynthia Anderson

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter to comment on the major improvement in THE BULLET reflected in the last two issues. As a sophomore I have dutifully read each issue since entering this school. Usually I have found it a waste of time. Each paper contained many irrelevant articles concerning subjects I had little or no interest in.

At last THE BULLET is beginning to sound as a college newspaper should. It is absurd to conceive of an academic community which is essenshould. It is absurd to conceive of an academic community which is essentially a community of inquiry ignoring the pressing problems within its own walls. A college newspaper should facilitate that inquiry by providing the framework for debate necessary for the eventual resolution of these problems. Finally THE BULLET has achieved this.

In previous issues of the paper the highlights of campus news seem to be the latest propple fashions and the ever favorite editorial "piggy paths." Many of us believed the paper was to-tally out of touch with the students belied by the fact that the reporters involved in the coverage of these controversial issues are in excellent academic standing. Ms. Ardan should note that the staff is represented on the Dean's List and that journalism itself is a valuable, educational experience.

sen is a valuation, educational experience.

4) Ms. Ardan's inference that PRO-METHEUS and THE BULLET are engaged in some sort of battle is untrue, although it may be difficult to realize this from Dover, Delaware, But more importantly, relations between the two publications have been cordicated to the contract of the property of the cordinate of the cordinate clined on several occasions to show a sense of cooperation.

Ms. Willis announced the tentative broadcast hours in a Senate meeting early last semester: the proposition being from 6:00 pm. to midnight. This was immediately protested by several day students enators since most day students leave the campus by late afternon. When questioned about this she refused to recognize any need for revision. She was then asked if Ann Carter Lee Hail would be included in the list of buildings to be able to receive the broadcasts. The answer, again, was no, Only the dormitories would be included. The next day, I met with Ms. Willis who committed that will be a supposed for the MCC student body and admitted that she didn't consider the day students after Bill Leighty had left the committee last year. Further, she resolved to not change unless significant response was seen from the day students on the radio poll issues that week. In other words, day students were forced to vote "no" not only to revise otherwise inconvenient listening hours, but to be able to listen and benefit at all. Her "settlement" was hardly equitable. The letter which she included was merely part of the standard alternate procedure to taking somenen to Honor Court. (MWC Handbook, page 115). Clindy Hefflin and myself met with Shells Willis to ask for an explanation of her actions. She already refused any changes in the hours. It was not until after we had given her a warning that she offered to guarantee better the two publications have been cordi-al and mutually supportive.

5) Finally, we do not believe that
Ms. Ardan does not intend to "defame
THE BULLET." By suggesting that we should not call attention to the "flaws" of our system, she is asking us to ignore a major responsibility of a newspaper. To do this would be the greatest self-defamation in which a newspaper could engage. Thus, Ms.
Ardan's suggestin, if heeded, would greatly defame THE BULLET.

The Editorial Board

and their interests.

Now overnight the paper has been transformed into stimulating reading reflective of the campus and its needs. It is rather ironic that last year the student body had no real media through which to vocalize our sentiments and now we have two. Good work.

Dear Editor:
Ilike Ms. Williamson's Letter to the Editor (THE BULLET—December 8, 1977, page 3), "I must begin by saying 1977, page 3), "I must begin by saying that the paper this year is liviler than I ever remember it being." And I must compliment your responsiveness to constructive criticism, such as M. Williamson's observation that you had misspelled Colin Turnbull's name.

name.

But it does seem to me that you have misunderstood her letter, for your apology reads "THE BULLET apologizes for the misspelling of our distinguished guest Colin Tumbuli."

Ms. Williamson's criticism ms. discussed to your misspelling not Tumbuli. The difference is similar to and as apparent as that between vandal and victim.

Let yourself go to

PIZZA HUT

Be Choosy Two kinds of pizza
Thick 'N Chewy Thin 'N Crispy
Full Line Salad Bar all you can eat
7 days per week any time $.99

Monday and Wednesday Nights 5:00 p.m. to 12:00 p.m. only

$1.00 OFF

Any Medium or large pizza good thru May 1978 must have Student ID

Tuesday Night Buffet

5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. only

All the salad, spaghetti, cavatini, pizza & garlic bread you can eat for $2.29

Monday-Tuesday

Luncheon Special
11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.
Steak Sub reg. $1.69 SPECIAL 99°
Meatball Sub reg. $1.49 SPECIAL 99°

Wednesday & Thursday

Dear Editor:

I was somewhat surprised to read in the last issue of THE BULLET that Susan Maloney, S.A. Whip, felt that the petition to recall Kathy Mayer was "unresearched." She did not seem to feel that way when she appeared to the petition of the peti any changes in the hours. It was not until after we had given her a warning that she offered to guarantee better hours and to definitely route the broadcasts tirough ACL. Actually, there was no reason for her to be startled. The energy spent on these charges was well-spent since the radio represents money paid out by day students and dorm students allow.

Michael Mello

charges was well-spent since the radio represents money paid out by day students and dorm students alike. Also, it is a means for day students to be kept informed on events which are hard enough to be kept up with already. Too much was at stake. The letter was a second alternative to Honor Court.

As for her self-proclaimed comparison to Henry Kissinger, such a smile is possible to Cindy Heflin and myself for our shuttle diplomacy. Shelia Willis certainly did not come to us.

On the whole, the radio station is an excellent idea and is sure to be a highly useful one. I am only sorry that Ms. Willis chose to keep to herself instead of cooperate. Any criticisms in the past were subject to her scrutiny. Yet I notice that she has not returned for the Spring semester this year. So, many of her inconsistencies will have to continue to go unanswered.

Mark McCoy

Judicial Revisions Dear Editor: In response to Sheila Willis' letter to the editor; I agree with her statement that "residential and non-residential students must know the facts of the (Campus Radio and Day Student) issue in an effort to stop the growing isolation between these two components of the campus." However, I must disagree with her presentation of the "facts." From the very beginning of the school year, Ms. Willis decilned on several occasions to show a sense of cooperation. Ms. Willis announced the tentative broadcast hours in a Senate meeting broadcast hours in a Senate meeting to Reform System

By GARY WEBB

By GARY WEBB
With the recent accusations and counter-accusations concerning the effectiveness of various Mary Washington College organizations, it is appropriate that a Judicial Study Commission has been formed to review and reform our Judicial System, the institution which has been most often attacked by concerned students. The eight-membered commission is comed of five students, one profe nd two administrators and two administrators.

The commission has held only one meeting so far, but there are several items of interest to be considered soon. Among them are the frequency with which mandatory down meetings may be held, the "advance warning" allegedly given to handicapped students when fire drills are to be held, and whether non-students can report student offenses.

Of major interest to the student

How Should We Then Live?

Western civilization has two choices—either return to Biblical principles or face the loss of freedom under an authoritarian regime. This is the thesis of "How Should We Then Live," a new 10-part film series beginning January 29th at 6:30 p.m. at the Combs Science Building on Mary Washington College Camput and Culture, "is the work of Dr. Francis Schaeffer, an American Scholar living in Switzerland.

The freedoms that the western world enjoyed were based on Reformation Biblical beliefs, Dr. Schaeffer claims. The founding fathers of these countries believed that humans were created by God with certain inalienable rights. If Christians would commit themselves to the Lordship of Christ, we could have a New Reformation, he argues, and replace arbitrary absolutes with truth once again.

The films, which parallel a recent book by the same title, were written and narrated by Goseple Flims of Muskegon, Michigan. Dr. Schaeffer's son, Franky Schaeffer V, served as produced for the project which took the film makers to 100 locations in 12 countries.

Dr. Schaeffer is widely known for the contract of the served for the project which took the film makers to 100 locations in 12 countries.

ducer for the project which countries.

Dr. Schaeffer is widely known for his intellectual defense of Christianity and the view that the Bible contains propositional truth about God and absolute values for living. He had expounded his major thesis in 20 books, including, The God Who is There, Death in the City, and Escape from Reason.

Francis Schaeffer and his wife

Reason.

Francis Schaeffer and his wife, Edith, went to Europe after World War II and established a retreat type home to minister to students. Time magazine called him a missionary to the intellectuals, and thousands of searchers have spent time with the Schaeffers and their staff discussing and studying Christianity.

In a documentary "you are there" style, the films begin with the death of the Roman culture and civilization and trace the development of the West up to our own day before considering the choices we have for the future. The 30-minute episodes include: The Roman Age, The Middle Ages, The Renaissance, The Reformation, The Revolutionary Age, The Scientific Age, The Age of Non-Reason, The Age of Fragmentation, The Age of Personal Peace and Affluence, and Final Choices.

The series is sponsored by Inter-al Peace and Affluence, and Final Choices.

The series is sponsored by Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.
The first film in the series is The Roman Age. This film examines Rome's collapse because it was built on man and his limited ideas alone. Early Christians survived the catacombs and the Colliseum by building their lives on a solid concept of God's truth and existence.

body are two issues. The first is the case of the "innocent bystander" in visitation violations. Some Commis-sion members feel that since a stu-dent has little or no control over his or dent has little or no control over his or her roommate in the event that the roommate has an "illegal" guest in the room, no student should be punished for a visitation violation initiated by his or her roommate.

The second issue is whether or not a Joint Council decision must be unanimous. Since Joint Council has the power of expulsion, some Commission members feel that a student should be members feel that a student should be offered the same protection he or she would receive in a court of law: the guarantee that a jury of the student's peers has reached a unanimous deciguarantee that a jury of the student's peers has reached a unantimous decision. The Judicial Study Commission has formulated a questionnaire, copies of which will soon be circulating throughout the campus. The questions concern visitation regulations, hall offenses, and other resident hall regulations. Also included is a space for comments and suggestions. The visitation questions were apparently the cause of some conflict among Commission members. Dean of Student Services Juanita Clernent was adamantly opposed to the inclusion of the question, "do you support the visitation regulations of MWC?" She argued that "organization" was needed. Despite her opposition, the question was included, and MWC students will have an opportunity to express their opinions on this vital issue.

BULLET Elections

Due to the resignation of Managing Editor Susan Kay Peters BULLET elections will be held Monday, Janu-ary 30, 1978 at 7 p.m. in THE BULLET office. Chairman of the Board of Pub-lications, Liz Sommerville, will pre-side.

Applications are currently being ac side.

Applications are currently being accepted for the positions of Managing Editor, News Editor, and Features Editor. Previous experience on THE BULLET is required. Submit qualification sheets to Anne Hayes, Virginia Dorm, Room 336, 393 or ACL Room 335 by noon the day of elections.

Following the Editorial Board elections, the positions of (2) assistant editorships, (2) layout editors, (2) circulation assistants, and (2) layout assistants will be filled. Previous experience on THE BULLET, though not mandatory, is helpful. Assistant editors will work with the Editorial Board in all phases of publication, including copy work and layout work. Layout editors will plan weekly layouts and assist at paste-ups at THE FREE LANCE-STAR.

Circulation assistants will work with the Circulation manager in preparing papers for mailing. For more information on these posts, please contact Patrick Everett, 4221. Layout assistants are required to work with the layout staff on a regular basis.

Qualification sheets for any of these positions should be submitted to Anne Hayes, Room 336 Virginia Dorm or ACL Room 333 by noon, Monday, January 30.

News Brief

The Spotsylvania County Parks and Recreation Department will offer Friday night ski trips to Massanutten and Wintergreen this year. The Massanutten trips will be February 17 and March 17; the Wintergreen trips will be on January 27, February 3, March 3.

Costs for each trip:

Massanutten: Transportation & lift $13.00, Equipment ($4) & lessons ($4) 8.00, $21.00 Total. Wintergreen: Transportation & lift $14.00, Equipment ($5) and lesson ($5) 10.00, $24.00 Total

All trips leave from the Spotsylva-nia Senior High parking lot promptly at 5:00 p.m. (buses will not wait) and will return to the school about 1:30 will return to the school about 1:30 a.m.

All application forms must be completed and returned to the Spotsylvania County Recreation Department office before 10:00 a.m. the Wednesday before each trip. There must be a minimum of 20 people or the trip will be cancelled. Money will be refunded only if entire trips are cancelled. If you have any questions, call 582-6361, ext. 265.

Photo by Th

COLD IS NICE, BUT NOT SNOW AND ICE. MWC students take a leisurely walk, unaware of the impending snowstorm

LITTLE

BOOK CENTER Fredericksburg Park and Shop Shopping Center

ew Releases & Old Favorites Hardbacks & Paperbacks

Monarch & Cliffs Notes Special Section of Sale Books

Posters & Photographs by Barry Fitzgerald

Phone 371-9330 Open Mon.-Fri. 10-9 Sat. 10-6

Colonial Fare in a Charming setting

Luncheon & Dinner served 7 days, 11-9 Dinner served, 5-9 Sunday Buffet 12-3 MWC Dinner Special 10% discount with student I.D.

Afternoon study break treats $1.50

373-1645

ONE OF THE MOST SPECTACULAR MOVIES EVER MADE!

GENE SHALIT, NBC-TV

WE ARE NOT ALONE

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS Starring RICHARD DREYFUSS

PG Coming

Luncheon Special
11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.
All the salad, spaghetti, cavatini, pizza & garlic bread you can eat for $2.29 Two Convenient Locations

Entertainment -

Aerosmith: Same Old Story

By PHILLIP LEONARD

my PHILLIP LEONARD Got the latest AeroKiss, er, Aerosmith album, Draw The Line, the other day. I must say, this record poses quite a dilemma. Why, you sak? Is it because it contains moving melodies, complex chord structures, or creative brilliance? Not on your life. This album is repetitive enough to make Led Zeppelin jealous (although Chicago still reigns supreme in this department.)

os still reigns supreme in this department.)

I would get right down to the music proper, but prefer to procrastinate a bit longer. One wonders, how can Aerosmith get this zircon to your and the suprementation of the bootleg litustrations of will Stout fails miserably. Or let me put it this way: Hirsheld should enter one of those "Draw Winky and Win a $500 Scholarship" contests. He's THAT good.

Well, I guess I've put it off long enough. Now for the bad news—the music on this clunker.

Somebody has got to tell this bunch, music on this clunker.

Somebody has got to tell this bunch, and for that matter, Ted Nugent, Kiss, and Blackmores' Rainbow, that speed and loudness do NOT automatically insure that a song will be good. On this disc, "Sight for Sore Eyes," the title cut, and "Bright Light Fright" aply demonstrates this. Come to think of it, so do "Critical Mass," "The Hand That Feeds," and "Milk Cow Blues." On this record, the competition for "Worst Cut" is quite keen. Now for the album song (and I use that term quite loosely.)

keen. Now for the album song (and I use that term quite loosely.)

The title cut, "Draw The Line" is one of the least offensive songs, but that doens't mean that it's good. It's fast paced, loud, and displays little artistic ability. The song is plagued, as are so many of the songs on this record, by stupid lyrics. I don't see how anyone over the age of 14 could writes uch inane stuff.

"I Warna Know Why" is an improved.

such inane stuff.
"I Wanna Know Why" is an improvement. Steven Tyler sings the dumb lyrics well, and the music track isn't bad either, but the song still sounds, well, ordinary. I'd guess that this song was written right after Tyler had his gusto taken away from him, or something.

The next tune, "Critical Mass," opens with this album's studio gimnic—a tape of a guitar being played in reverse. How quaint. The Beatles were doing that about ten years ago. "Get It Up"—more stupid lyrics from the band that gave you the clever rhyme (in Pandora's Box"), "city slicker" with "slitty licker"; we are treated to them rhyming "I'm just your slave, your master's bait." Humor abounds. The music end of this piece is as bad as the lyrics.

In "Bright Light Fright" (I just love these song titles), the last song on side 1, Joe Perry sings, instead of Tyler. The first minute or two of the song are palatable, but instead of getting better, the song takes a dive. Still more poor lyrics. At least they're consistent.

sistent. Sopens with a song that has a lot of potential. "Kinga and Queens" is an armbitious song that nearly makes it. What keeps this number from really succeeding is, yep, you guessed it, a set of imbeelic lyrics (again.) The words on this tune rival those of Paulie and Linda McCartney's "Cook Of The House" (which may be the worst song ever) for asimore and Linda McCartney's "Cook Of The House" (which may be the worst song ever) for asinine lyrics. In an attempt to go the fairy tale route, a la Renaissance, Yes, etc., they ruin what could have been a very good song. The song would have been better off without any words to it at all. By the time he gets to the end of the song, Tyler is ready to retch.

He saves that fac. "

ready to retch.

He saves that for the next song. Ryler IS Really. During "The Hand That Feeds," Steven Tyler spends a good deal of the song making sounds that give the impression that he's throwing up. I can't blame him, though, he sums up the whole album in those noises he spews forth.

Aerosmith liked (why is beyond me) "Get Is Up" so much this time around it's titled "Sight For Sore Eyes." This is yet another total failure.

Eyes." This is yet another total failure.

Whoever (I suspect that it was Tyler) wrote the words to the last, and least song on the album, "Milk Cow Blues," should be made to listen to it around the clock for a week. Listening to this song is sheer torture. "Milk Cow Blues" features Tyler perpetuating aimost criminal acts on a harmonica. I mean if you can't play any better than that, Steve, you ought to go back to selling Grit newspaper on the streets of Boston. A bad song to end a bad album.

Apparently this band has peaked. Their music has failed to progress in any direction for two albums now. It is really disappointing to see the band that did "Train Kept A Rolling," "Dream On," and "Mama Kin" put out such mindless drivet.

out such mindless drivel.

Because I care, You must be free Free as a schooner bound by no horizon, her sails furled in the wind. Free as the restless sea on which she sails, Free as the gull that soars in her wake Free as the mistral that guides her.

In the novel of you, each page is more intriguing than the last. Each small encounter Each small encounter uncovers a new mystery, which I have yet to solve. Yet I must be patient, for I cannot read the ending first. I can only treasure each chapter as it unfolds ... Just as I treasure you.

Gretchen Burman

Classifieds

Full- and part-time sales people needed. Call 11-8. 371-5775, Mon-day-Friday.

Ru, watch your step; you may get

Join NORML

Roof: Congrats, but don't call any

ODU misses you, Sue (isn't it?).

Hi! MJ from Fruitloop

J.G. "I'm sorry she's not here right now." Be careful about answering Evil, you're really cruel. Nee

C.C. I love you M.M.

One roommate for sale or rent. Contact Barb, x 500

The Hiding Place

Its cast topped by Julie Harris, Eileen Heckart and Arthur O'Connell and with a screen discovery Jeannette Clift in a key role, World Wide Pictures' "The Hiding Place' will have a special showing on the Mary Washington Campus, George Washington Hall, on Thursday, February 9, at 8:00 p.m.
Regarded by many critics as America's foremost living actress, Ms.
Harris has four times won the New York stage performers' most coveted recognition, the Tony Award. Ms.
Heckart is an Academy Award winner, and O'Connell twice has been nominated for an Oscar.
One of the most powerful pleas for an end to man's inhumanity to man as exemplified by the horrors of Nazism during World War II is sounded by "The Hiding Place." This filmization of Dutch Christian Corrie ten Boom's best-selling autobiography is an account of her war years when she first, headed an underground unit to help Jewe secape German torture and later wound up to experience Nazi bestality in the Ravensbruck death camp for women.
The showing of this film, "The Hidbestiality in the Ravensbruck death camp for women.

The showing of this film, "The Hid-ing Place," is being presented by the Baptist Student Union, 1514 College Avenue. Tickets can be purchased at the door or in advance from the B.S.U. for $1.50 per person.

The showing is open to the public and there will be approxi-mately 1600 seats available.

Hawaii: Paradise Found

By KATHRYN OTTO Hawaii. People have heard the name and associate it with Paradise in the Pacific, but how many really know what it's like? Hearing descriptions doesn't seem to help since you almost have to visit the islands to understand their charm and personality, not only for the physical beauty of the rugged mountains, the warm temperatures, and the snow-white beaches that abound, but for the very people who live there.
Travel brochures rave about the enchanting sights and aloha spirit of the Hawaiians, but one becomes skeptical that a place can be as pretty a picture as they pain. The truth of the matter is that Hawaii is just as magnificent as the brochures boast—even better.
Island people are truly friendly and take the time to enjoy their existence on earth.
Local kids growing up on 'the rock'

Island people are truly friendly and take the time to enjoy their existence on earth.

Local kids growing up on 'the rock' are athletic and aglie since they can practice basketball or volleyball year-round on the outdoor courts that the state smantains. Surfing is the state sport, and a majority of males become proficient in riding the waves. Almost every resident can rate the wave activity on a given day, and those who can. In addition to these sports, Hawaii offers a variety of other diverting activities, to keep all tanned and slim.

Hawaii's lifestyle is a jolt to many mainlanders who come to live in the state. Everything from appointments to banquets run on Hawaiian time, which is anywhere from ten minutes to a half hour late. The atmosphere there is so condusive to relaxation, that many times efficiency is disrupted. But one adjusts to the prospect and learns to enjoy the slower pace. Rather than race through a day, Islanders take their time and look at the beauty that surrounds them. Hawaiian people are boldly congenial and it is almost unusual not to strike p conversations or even friendships while waiting in line for an event. Half way to the Orient, Hawaii has secome a melting pot of cultures anging from Phillipino to Samoan, Thinese to Black, and Caucasion to Grean Mixed marriages are not Chinese to Black, and Caucasion to Korean. Mixed marriages are not rare and offsprings from these mar-riages are considered better-looking than pure racial strains, which is an-other way of saying that racial preju-dice is virtually nonexistent in all but the most backward sections. At one point, tourists were shunned with dis-gust, but today that situation has im-aroused greatly.

REDKEN

gouth, to today that situation has improved greatly

Krolling down Kalakaua Avenue in Waikiki, a spectator watches the dudes checking out the ladies, who enjoy both the sights of store-front windows and the attention of the guys with bronzed skin. Discotheques are turnerous in Waikiki, outnumbering Washington, D.C., and Hula shows are featured in most hotels. Sidewalk benchsitters delight in watching the passersby, not only enjoying the foxy people, but in deciding which person is a tourist, which a kamaaina or white Hawaiian resident, and which works in Waikiki.

T've left out so much that should be fold. But then you can't tell someone works in wear-i've left out so much that snown told. But then you can't tell someone about all the great uniqueness of a paradise. So what's the point in trying to describe a place that's to be eautiful to describe? Maybe it's a need to tell another of what he's missing. Maybe what he's missing. Maybe another of what he's missing, Maybe it's a longing to return to nature there. Or maybe it's an attempt to fire a per, son's imagination so one day he'll get there to experience the loveliness for himself. T-shirts proclaim "Lucky You Live Hawaii" and in this person's opinion there is no better place to abode than the Sandwich Isles set in the deep bluegreen of the Pacific.

LIKE NEW TRANSPORTATION

1969 Dodge Dart 1966 Ford Falcon $ 395 $ 975 1971 Pinto 1967 Camaro $1295 1968 Camaro $1595 1969 Toyota $ 995

1971 Toyota 1974 Vega

1973 Grand Prix

$3195 1970 Chevy Convertible $1595 1973 Vega 1968 Pontiac LeMans $ 450

$1295

Over 100 Cars To Choose From Open 7 days a week til 8:00 p.m. DISCOUNT AUTO

371-9982

CHAINS AROUND BALL CIRCLE were an important addition to MWC in 1977. Some students have quickly caught on to the chains' purp Others still maintain that the shortest distance between two points is a Intimate Circles.

By MADAM X

It was almost six and growing dark as Jane began a last minute check of the house: buffet spread in the dining room, cards shuffled and tables up in the glassed-in patio, clean towels in the downstairs guest bath. Passing the hall mirror, she paused to fluff her hair. Plain brown, she sighed, just like her eyes. "Just plain Jane," as her husband Martin affectionately called her. She whirled around to greet him as he came whistling down the stairs.

"Everything's ready," she gestured.

"Wonderful, hon," he beamed, kissing her. "You're the best hostess I know," he assured her, as he ambled now, ne assured her, as he ambled over to the bar.

Martin Baker was not plain. At 44 he was 10 years Jane's senior, but to his wife he would always be a Greek god. Tail, blonde, and immaculate, his success as an architect had allowed them to build their dream house in the country at an early age.

"Well, I hope," said Jane slowly, "everyone has a good time, but I'm not sure that includes Sue. She's so critical... she makes me nervous."

"Don't pay any attention to her," mumbled Martin offhandedly, as he fumbled for bottles and glasses. "She's just that way."

Jane snrugged. "On, I know. But lat-tely she's gotten worse. She's even quarreled with Kate, her best friend." "Sue's got a lot on her mind. Pete's been having trouble getting building contracts. Word has it he may declare bankruptcy." "You've always said that came

"You've always said that came from shady business practices," Jane asserted.

Martin looked up in surprise. "Did I say that? Must have said it in my younger days. Business is not that easy, the answers aren't that simple. Not any more," he added sadly. His hands shook as he spoke. Jane noted them with alarm.

hands shook as he spoke. Jane noted them with alarm.

"What's wrong?" she asked.

"Wrong?" he echoed. "Nothing's wrong. For pete's sake Jane, get off my back. You've been asking that same question for weeks. It's nothing but middle age termors—something YOU wouldn't know anything about." In frustration Jane retreated to the kitchen, snapping on the portable t.v. as she tidied up. All of her inquiries had ended the same, with Martin blowing up. Lately he'd become sensitive about his age, his work, everything ... Suddenly, Jane's attention was riveted by the dronling of the evening news. Her mild curiosity turned to numbing horror.

to numbing horror.
"Martin!" she called quickly,

"come in here!" she pointed breath-lessly as he entered the kitchen, "it's the Pierpoint building... in flames ... hundreds trapped on the top floor ... they can't reach them ..." She turned, to see her husband drained of color and shaking violently. Martin's thoughts raced as he stood in the door-way. Don't panic yet, he instructed himself. Stop shaking and calm down. "Are you alright?" cried Jane anxi-ously.

Part I -

ously.

"No," replied Martin tersely, "I'm not. My newest design is on fire and people are dying in it and I am most definitely NOT allright."

At the moment the doorhell ring, "I'll get it." said Martin, glad to escape from Jane's questioning eyes. He opened the heavy wooden door with a mighty heave, and found himself face to face with Sue and Pete Chillens.

As he forced a smile and motioned them in, Pete shot him a quizzical glance. Martin's heart sank. Pete knows, he thu ught gloomilly, and he knows that I know. What he had dreaded most had finally happened. Martin's mind turned swiftly to the condition of his stocks, his insurance ... his gun. It had to be done, he resolved. Soon.

to be continued*

209 Williams Street 1.75 PIZZA 17 inch

Delivery—7 days 5-11 Open Daily

Phone Orders Ready in 10 Minutes

Eredericksburg, Virginia Sandwich Shop and Pizza House

variety of subs......1.25 Mary Washington Veg. Sub....1.25 Greek Souvlaki1.45 Greek Taco......95

Egg Plant Parmigiana1.45 Greek Pastries.....

AMad Hatter UNISEX HAIR SHOP

Now in Park & Shop

major credit card

Featuring the Latest Unisex Hair Designs and Dementional Coloring.

Shampoo, cut and blow dry, Conditioning included > with student I.D. Bring this coupon. Open Monday-Friday 9-9

Saturday 9-5 Featuring dementional coloring

design perms and design cuts

Finding the Great Outdoors

One semester at Mary Washington College has indicated to me that inter-

One semester at Mary Washington College has indicated to me that interest in various outdoor activities is as fanatical here as it is throughout the nation. Fewer states in the U.S. can flaunt the opportunities for outings that Virginia does, and fewer periods in our lives will be as suited for such activities as this current limbo between parental supervision and excessive responsibility. With this in mind, it is only right that backpackers, canoers, fishermen and skiers be given the opportunity to find each other, or, more practicaltaph the vast resources of knowledge fast lie dormant within the experience of devoted enthusiasts, Needless to say, participation in this effort to share knowledge of appropriate information on locations and supplies is strongly urged.

The Moormans River circuit trail in

The Moormans River circuit trail in southern Shenandoah National Park is highly recommended, especially for those who desire variety of scen-ery on a fairly short trek. As is true for all of Shenandoah, parking is accessible owing to the proximity of Skyline Drive. Jarmans Gap (milepost 97) or Blackrock Gap (MP 110) are the most logical starting points re the most logical starting poi r this 22 mile trail that divides its between the Appalachian Trail (A.T.) and a parallel fire road.

and a parallel fire road.

Fire road normally conjurs up the image of an exposed, rock-strewn thoroughfare whose lack of scenery is eclipsed only by its monotony. At least in the winter, Moormans River is swift and picturesque, crisscrossed by a hemlock-lined road which also changes elevation sharply to give it a canyon-like appearance. Be prepared to hike with wet freet and fon't despair while trying to devise an explanation for three miles of hard uphil climbing on (of all things) a fire road.

on (of all tungs) a tire road.

The 12-mile section on the AT is largely ridge hiking, but does climb several 3000-foot summits. A small portion along Wildcat Ridge is more characteristic of the southwestern United States. Few outstanding vistas are encountered, but this is said with reservations since the entire trail was hiked while enshrouded in a dense, but beautifully mysterious fog.

There are two shelters along the trail, Sawmill Run and Blackrock, which are both off of the AT and about 10 miles apart. They are currently in fine condition, but were obviously not designed for sleeping comfort. Water supplies at both are questionable from May through October, but can be obtained easilyfrom the Moormans which passes within a few miles of both shelters. Unfortunately, the area surrounding the fire road is on private property, or owned by the city of Charlotteaville and not able to fit Shenandoah's debilitating camping requirements, so camping is virtually restricted to the shelter areas.

The Moormans River circuit is of moderate length and difficulty, definitely more enjoyable in the winter. Frozen waterfalls are commonplace—a phenomenon that rarely comes to mind in regard to Virginia. With an updated map of southern Shenendoah and a pair of dry moccasins, it is recommended for all.

MWCFalls

By CANDY SAMS

On January 18, the MWC men's bas-ketball team traveled to Richard Bland College for another away game. The game was totally aginst Mary Washington as four starters fouled out in the second half of the game.

The first half of the game was Richard Bland's as they outshot and outrebounded the MWC team with efficiency. The MWC men just couldn't get themselves together to capture a lead and were down 33-48 for the half-lead and were down 33-48 for the half-time.

The MWC men were better equipped in the second half with more shots on the board and more aggressive play. Just as the going was good, four starting players for MWC-Kevin Martin, Frank Fitzpatrick, Wally Scott, and Ron Synan fouled out of the game, which left the team in quite a dilemma. The men didn't give up though, as they picked up and moved on to score more points. MWC's leading scorers were Ron Synan—22 pts., Mark Holmberg—20 pts., Wally Scott—10 pts., Kevin Martin—7 pts., Duke Stableford—6 pts. Richard Bland increased their scoring when they saw the MWC squad coming on strong, and sped on to win 83-77.

The ten will have a home game

The men will have a home game Sat., Jan. 28 against the Nationa Business College at 7 p.m., so come support them!!!! See you there!!!

ered the contest in full swing. Infuriated by what he termed "the perversion" taking place, Towels immediately cited all 2,300 people in the room. The next day, Towels, who vows to "wipe up the corrupt elements which pervade our academic environment," arranged an administrative trial, after the majority of the defendants refused to sign a document Towels had designed, which stated that in return for clemency, the defendant would agree to sign away defendant would agree to sign away defendant would agree to sign away his/her first born child to Towels to do mas/ner first born child to Towels to do with what he wanted.

The trial, held in G. W. auditorium, lasted the better part of a week as arguments raged back and forth between the accuser and the accused. President Woodard, who presided over the hearing, struggled vainly to maintain order. When a defendant got out of hand, Woodard had him placed in chains.

After careful all!

in chains.

After careful deliberation, the administrative jury, comprised of Deans' Clement. Croushore, and

RON SYNAN SCORES AN UNASSISTED LAY-UP after stealing the ball against Christopher Newport College on Friday. The sophomore guard scored 20 points in the game

Oliver, announced their decision. Each of the defendants would be charged $700 dollars and required to find off-campus housing within 3 weeks. President Woodard, who at all times has the power to veto any decision made on campus, realized in time that this punishment would deprive the college of much needed revenue to pay salaries, and commuted the sentence to strict campus and as an afterthought, arranged to contract an afterthought, arranged to contract with ARA food services for the follow-ing year.

Dick Obenshain, one of the four can-Dick Obenshain, one of the four candidates running for the Republican nomination for Senate, will visit Mary Washington College on Thursday, January 26 in Lounge A of ACL. The public is cordially invited to attend Obenshain's lecture, and is encouraged to remain afterwards for a question and answer session.

Obenshain's visit is sponsored by Obenshain's visit is sponsored by the MWC Republican Club.

The Westmoreland "2300"

The following article is reprinted from the George Washington's Mother's Lampon comedy magazine written by the dents of Bill Kemp's English Comedy class at MWC.

Recently, there has been much controversy on campus concerning the "leaking" of information from Honor, Judicial, and Administrative trials. This "leaking" of information from Honor, Judicial, and Administrative trials. This "leaking" of information is indirect violation of the honored tradition of Mary Washington College. However much the students may disagree with the situation, they are in no way entitled to comment on, or interfere with the running of this institution. There is a hierarchy of power which has been built up and maintained since the founding of the college, and which will continue to withstand even "Sie most caustic onslaughts by the students. They only pay the bills around here. We, the writers of THE LAMPON, however, like to feel that we are in direct violation of almost everything and so the traditions of the college don't stand in our path—don't deter us from our goal to bring the truth out into the open. Due to the recent controversy over the Westmoreland "4", we feel it is our duty to bring to light a major scandal which has been over-looked. We are bringing to you in this issue, a major piece of investigative reporting, soon to be leaked to THE WASHINGTON POST (the movie will reporting, soon to be teached at All Washinotron PoST (the movie will be released in August). Several months ago we were clued in by our informant, "Big Mouth", (a high official in the Woodard administration), that an extremely unusual precedent setting case was taking place at that time. Disguised as Marsh Mello, one of our members was able to gain entrance to the drine, acting as the defense attorney. Various other members of the staff were able to gain entrance to the dorm involved, and question the residents. The following may shock you, but we feel it is our duty to bring to you, the students, the truth about what happens on this campus.

campus.

The event in question happened late last year, in Westmoreland dorm. One unusually quiet Tuesday night, several residents of the dorm became bored and decided the best way to fight the growing boredom was to get drunk. Room 102 was the area chosen to host the first annual Westmoreland 'Drink Your Ass Off': contest, Everyone in the dorm attended, except the occupant of room 102, who was reviewing Police records in the campus Police Office. As time passed by on that boring night, word of the contest spread to other dorms. One by one, the dormitories emptied as students hurried over to test their skill in in-ebriation. At 11:39 the last student on campus entered room 102. At that time, Campus Police, 2 dorm mothers, (Marshall and Ball), 5 marines, the counter women at the C-shop, and Script and the counter women at the C-shop, and of Westmoreland and presentative of women 102 were the only people left on campus who were not in Westmoreland 102. By 12:01, the party was in full swing. Towels, finishing his studies, decided to return to his room. On his arrival, Towels was quick to notice that the door to his room was standing ajar. Entering, he discov-

In Park & Shop Shopping Center

This week's MWC Special:

4 oz. hamburger with French fries only with student I.D.

Under new ownership and management of Cap'n Fred's a division of Biftec, Inc.

Open 7 days a week 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Next week's special:

Sea Trout all you can eat

Photo by Thomas Vandever

MARK HOLMBERG FIRES UP A JUMP SHOT against Christopher Newport College in Friday night's game. The basket proved elusive, however, as did victory, and Christopher Newport toppled MWC 73–68.

Men's Basketball Displays Great Talent and Skill

By CANDY SAMS
On Friday, January 20th and Saturday, January 21st, the MWC men's basketball team highlighted the January Jubilee weekend with two home games against their toughest competitors: Christopher Newport College and Gallaudet College. MWC lost both games but did so with very close scores and a good feeling for playing so well.

sources and a good feeling for playing so well.

On Friday night, when the men hosted Christopher Newport, the MWC men played outstanding basket-ball against their unmerciful opponents. Christopher Newport has a reputation for beating MWC in past games, but this time MWC gave them a good workout for that reputation.

MWC had excellent offense and defense the entire game and never gave in to Christopher Newport's continuous pressure. MWC was perceptive to Newport's every move on offense, and took advantage of every space in Christopher Newport defense. MWC scored more points with lay-ups and left handed shots by forcing their way inside the key. MWC's higher scorers were Kevin Martin, 23 pts., Ron Synan, 20 pts., and Wally Scott, 10 pts.

The Christopher Newport players were quick, sharp, and ready to move the ball, but MWC gave them a lot of pressure with their man-to-man defense Desnite MWC's ithit defense.

pressure with their man-to-man de-fense. Despite MWC's tight defense, Christopher Newport hit mostly out-side baskets and never let up on their side baskets and never let up on their rebounds.

The fourth quarter was the most exciting part of the game because both teams were even, and every shot was crucial. MWC picked up some fouls which enabled Christopher Newport to sneak ahead with a few extra points. Christopher Newport then took every ball they had and made a basket to capture a five-point lead and the final victory 88-72. Osach Hegmann was very pleased with his team's performance and said, "This is the best game they've played with their heads." The fans loved the game too as the MWC men kept them on the ends of their seats with great play and ball skill. A big congratulations must go to all of the players for putting on such a spectacular show—keep up the good work!!

On Saturday, Jan. 21, when MWC hosted the Gallaudet team they didn't have the same touch as they did against Christopher Newport, because they missed many well-intended shots. This led them to trail 32-50 at halftime, but they got themselves together for the second half.

MWC caught up to Gallaudet was quick, perceptive and very aggressive and controlled the game with their excellent outside shots.

MWC got closer and closer early in the fourth quarter with only four points to go to catch up to Gallaudet, but Gallaudet saved themselves with Goul shots and more points to arrowly win 88-95.

MWC's leading scorers were Kevin.

foll shots and more points to narrow workly win 98-95.

MWC's leading scorers were Kevin Martin, 28—points, Wally Scott—17 pts., Mark Holmberg—16 pts., Ron Synan—13 pts., Frank Fitzpatrick—12 pts. and Pat Pekinpaugh—11 pts. The men were down 20 points from the halftime and came back to catch up for a three point difference in the final score—now that's hard work for you!

The MWC men will be able to show their hard work again when they host the National Business College this Saturday, Jan. 28 at 7 p.m. See You There!!

Rugby Players

By SUSAN KAY MORROW

By SUSAN KAY MORROW
For the last several weeks Mary Washington has been flooded with announcements of a Rugby team. However, due to the very small turnout of women it has been assumed that the majority of ladies on this campus think Rugby is only for men ...
WRONG.
Rugby is a sport for those with de-

WRUNG.
Rugby is a sport for those with de-termination, integrity, sportswomen-ship and coordination. Needless to say, these qualities are not exclusive of men!

say, these qualities are not exclusive of men!

Any of you who believe that you cannot play because you do not know how.

I must once again say WRONG.
The first several meetings will be held in the classroom. The majority of players will be eager learners just like you.

Now, for a few facts about this wonderful sport:

The Rugby field (pitch) is basically like a football field, but is usually larger: 110 yards x 75 yards with end zones (in-goal) 25 yards deep. The out of bounds line is the touch line. The touch line is in-touch, the goal line is in-goal, and the dead ball line is not in-goal. The dead ball line is at the end of the in-goal zone. Other demarcations are the 25 yard line for 25 yard drop outs, the half-way line (50 yards in football) and lines which are 10 yards from the half-way line for the kick-off distances, as in an on-side kick in football.

ball.

Actually, rugby is not similar to football, but football is similar to rugby. There are no mid-field markers. If play stops two yards from the touch line then that is where play is resumed, it is not brought to the mid-dle of the field as in football.

There are 15 women per side divided into the forwards (frontline) and the backs (receivers, halfback etc...). Anybody can carry the ball, kick, run, score or whatever. Rugby is a team effort—everyone shares in the victory as well as the defeat. The forwards are generally bigger and slower whereas the backs are usually smaller and faster. Therefore, you must play to the forwards because rugby is nonstop and everybody is running thousands of yards through the course of two 40 minute halves (a great way to get in shape). So, you must be kind to your forwards or they will in turn let you down because you are them to death chashing after your stray kicks.

Rugby has a five minute half and no time outs except for injury. In case of injury the victim is allowed 2 minutes to recover or she is removed from the field. Usually, there are no replacements for injured players—you play shorthanded. Such is life—remember this is not a game for the weak. You've got to be a woman and act like one. I say "act like one" because rugby is a lady's game, whereby fif you take a cheap or dirty shot at an opponent, you must be ready to pay the price. This is her 14 teammates cleaning their cleats on your nose! Back to womenship—for 80 minutes you are engaged in a very demanding and physical sport. The two teams are enemies against each other, have no doubts. But after the match (not game) is over you're singing songs and drinking away the pain and facigue like the best of friends.

If this has you thinking you might like to give it a try, start jogging and keep your eyes open for an announcement of the next rugby meeting. With TWO THOUSAND WOMEN on this campus it would be a real shame not to have a women's rugby team.

campus it would be a real shart to have a women's rugby team.

ADAM'S RIB LOUNGE

at Horne's Motor Lodge No. 1 in Top 40 & Disco Live Entertainment

Open 5-1:30 a.m. Entertainment from 9-1:30 a.m.

featuring this week

Demetri Callas and the Hollywood Coolbreeze Band

Ladies' nights Tuesday Monday Nights MWC Nights

Cover Charge $1 Friday & Saturday, Closed Sunday

Good Food at Reasonable Prices

SIRLOIN PIT

U.S. 1

at 1-95

Hours: 6 a.m.-10 p.m.

Welcome Back Mary Washington Students Try Our Weekday Specials

Mon.—Bone-In Sirloin Strip Tues.—Rib-Eye Steak Wed.—Top Sirloin Steak

Thur.-Rib-Eye Steak Includes: Potato, Toast and our All you can eat salad bar

156 ROOMS

(703) 898-6800